When I looked at my work during this period, I saw that it resembled Vasily Kandinsky (a Russian painter and an art theorist. He is generally credited as the pioneer of abstract art). I liked his work when I was a student, so I used his influence on this work that I created on this work. He was one of the founders of Der Blaue Reiter, 1896 to 1914. His contribution to modern art was great. All his life developed the growth of abstraction and the transformation it underwent through the process of painting. I chose his work for my influence from The Blue Rider years that were around 1911-14.
